GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.

Harry Lacy appeared last night at the Grand Opera-House in the role of Col. Graham, the hero of "The Planter's Wife." He played in this many years ago, and won reputation for his work. The story is interestingly told, and Mr. Lacy and his company give an excellent exposition of its dramatic qualities. The star is an excellent, herole actor, and his part in the present play is every bit as good as the part he had in "The Still Alarm."
